

Risqu° Tabulations

Specialized Bookkeeping for Unique Businesses

What Kind of Kinky Gig or Side Hustle is Right For You?

This form is used along with our Guide to Kinky Gigs and Side Hustles. If you haven't downloaded and read it yet, please do so by clicking on the title above before working on this.

The worksheets will help you organize your thoughts about your personal preferences that help determine which gigs fit your temperament and personal circumstances.

Select an answer that best describes how you feel, or you can type a short one in if you don't like the choices in the dropdowns.

Personal Fit Assessment

Are You: Monetizing a hobby Taking on a side hustle Becoming a gig worker

Do you prefer working with people, products, information, or (you fill it in)

Would you rather create, teach, collect, perform, or (you fill it in)?.....

Do you consider yourself a good salesperson?

Are you able to self-perform order fulfillment for physical items?

How familiar are you with selling on eCommerce platforms (e.g. eBay, Etsy)?..

How would you describe your social media skills? (e.g. Facebook, Fetlife)

Have you ever kept a blog, video log, or other type of online journal?

Gig Selection Worksheets

Risk Tolerance and Comfort Zones

Having your own business always entails risks, and not all of them are financial. Both the factual, mathematical probability of risk and the subjective, perceived risk you feel are important. Rate your comfort level with the following:

Do you like interacting with strangers online?

Do you like interacting with strangers in person?

Up to what level of customer interaction are you comfortable with?.....

Are you willing to appear on camera?

How much would it bother you if your kink became publicly visible?

Does the adult industry stigma make you feel uncomfortable?

Does operating in legal grey areas make you uncomfortable?.....

Would resolving stigma-based restrictions and bans seem difficult?.....

If the income from your gig was unstable, would it cause financial distress? ..

Do you struggle with work involving heavy emotional labor?

Resources and Constraints

Understanding the resources you can draw upon, as well as the constraints you must observe, is an important part of your decision-making.

Existing skills

Existing equipment

Existing audience/community presence

Available startup capital

Hours available weekly

Availability for weekend work

Ability to be on call

Transportation limitations

Space limitations for inventory, equipment storage, supplies, home office, packaging

Sufficient potential clientele for locally based businesses

Gig Ranking Matrix

This worksheet is intended to help you compare and contrast potential gigs. List up to four and assign a score to each of the five critical factors, where 1 means strongly positive and 5 strongly negative.

No.	Gig Description	Excitement	Skill Match	Startup Cost	Risk Level	Realistic Fit
1
2
3
4

Gig-Specific Analysis

What may be a problem for you with one gig may not be a problem with another. Under Gig No., refer to the line number on the previous list.

For each gig you are considering:	Gig No.
	1	2	3	4
Would things be OK if you were out for several days?
Do you think you will enjoy yourself most of the time doing this?
Will this cause friction with your significant others, extended family, or friends?
Could it cause problems for the people you live with?
Would this interfere with your social life too much?
Would this appreciably complement or enhance your social life?				